The Permaculture Design Course Experience...

Permaculture Design is both Art and Science. Learn problem solving and decision making protocols based on the Patterns of Nature. We'll learn to Design, Build and Maintain our own homes while we enrich our community and create local livelihoods.

This Course has truly transformed the lives and enhanced the careers of thousands of people around the globe. Design professionals can add new qualifications to their resumes and can offer sustainability services to their clients. Homeowners, gardeners, and land managers learn to increase the value and productivity of their property. Real estate and development companies are able to better address a growing concern for the environment- and teachers will learn to integrate natural design into their curriculum.
