

Permaculture Design Certificate Course

Learn how permaculture design can meet human needs by turning human gardens and communities into fully functioning ecosystems. Receive hands on experience on how to apply the principles of ecological design in your own home, farm, neighborhood, and city.

12 Day Design Course in San Diego
Jan14-15,21-23,28-30, Feb 4-6

- Permaculture ethics and design principles
- Pattern understanding
- Creating healthy and biologically rich soil
- Plant selection, plant guilds and food forests
- Site analysis & design
- Mapping & microclimates
- Water harvesting and keyline design
- Animal husbandry
- Community land access and local food systems
- Co-housing, eco-villages and City Repair
- Ecological economics
- Field trips to permaculture sites throughout San Diego

$625 to register by December 31st
$675 to register after December 31st or $200/ Weekend

For more information visit www.EdenOnEarthLandscaping.com call Josh Robinson (928) 853-9716 WelcomeTheRain@gmail.com

Taught by regional permaculture expert, Josh Robinson, as well as local experts TBA. Josh Robinson has taught permaculture, rainwater harvesting, and ecological landscaping throughout the Southwest including courses at Northern Arizona University, Prescott College, and the Ecosa Institute. Josh is also the President on Eden on Earth, LLC, a permaculture based landscaping company.