

Regenerative Design Institute is proud to offer the

Ecology of Leadership

Exploring the roots of leadership and cultivating a life you love

4-Month Program

Offered: March–June 2011

Location: Ojai, CA

Do you want to use your gifts and passions while making a bigger difference in the world?

Modeled on the principles of permaculture and natural systems, the Ecology of Leadership Program guides participants on a leadership development journey through self-inquiry, skill-building, and deepened nature connection. You will:

- Nourish your passions
- Build leadership and communication skills
- Build a peer-coaching support network between workshops
- "Compost" limiting behaviors and beliefs
- Design and implement a self-inspired project, giving you the chance to practice new leadership skills while making a difference in your community
- Deepen your relationship with nature

Whether you currently see yourself as a leader or if you are dreaming of finding your calling and stepping into your full potential, the Ecology of Leadership Program will give you the tools to awaken a joyful, sustainable vision for your life, your community, and the world.

Instructors

James Stark & Christopher Kuntzsch

"The only way to predict the future is to create it." - Peter Drucker

Course Fees

$1100 Program Tuition

Special Discounts

$975 Early bird discount

$875 RDI alumni discount

$750 Student discount

Course meets one weekend per month
March–June 2011

For more information & registration please visit www.theEcologyofLeadership.org or call 415-868-9681